Brachiosaurus was one of the tallest and largest dinosaurs ever discovered. It lived during the middle to late Jurassic period, about 156 to 57 million years ago. Unlike most dinosaurs, its front legs were longer than its hind legs: this, together with its very long neck, made Brachiosaurus look a little like a giraffe. It also made it very tall.

Brachiosaurus - ScienceDaily

Riggs named the dinosaur Brachiosaurus altithorax; the generic name is Greek for "arm lizard", in reference to its proportionately long arms, and the specific name means "deep chest". Brachiosaurus is estimated to have been between 18 and 21 meters (59 and 69 ft) long; weight estimates range from 28.3 to 58 metric tons (31.2 and 64 short tons). It had a disproportionately long neck, small skull, and large overall size, all of which are typical for sauropods.
