Box and Cox (1964) developed the transformation. Estimation of any Box-Cox parameters is by maximum likelihood. Box and Cox (1964) offered an example in which the data had the form of survival times but the underlying biological structure was of hazard rates, and the transformation identified this.

Simultaneous equation models are a type of statistical model in the form of a set of linear simultaneous equations. They are often used in econometrics. One can estimate these models equation by equation; however, estimation methods that exploit the system of equations, such as generalized method of moments (GMM) and instrumental variables estimation (IV) tend to be more efficient.

The Heckman correction (the two-stage method, Heckman's lambda or the Heckit method) is any of a number of related statistical methods developed by James Heckman at the University of Chicago in 1976 to 1979 which allow the researcher to correct for selection bias. Selection bias problems are endemic to applied econometric problems, which make Heckman's original technique, and subsequent ...
