While my work is attempting to find the experience of hope and joy in the Somali past and identity it is easy, if not expected, of me to do this as an outsider. I have never, and probably will never, have to contend with this kind of grief, of seeing my home ripped inside out and turned in to something so ugly.

Mother Tongue, by Amy Tan I am not a scholar of English or literature. I cannot give you much more than personal opinions on the English language and its variations in this country or others. I am a writer. And by that definition, I am someone who has always loved language. ... my mother had gone through for a most regrettable mistake.
