The Role of International Organisations in World Politics

Realism is a school of thought in international relations theory, theoretically formalising the Realpolitik statesmanship of early modern Europe. Although a highly diverse body of thought, it can be thought of as unified by the belief that world politics ultimately is always and necessarily a field of conflict among actors pursuing power.

The world has moved into a new and unsettling geopolitical phase. It is not just multipolar, but multiconceptual. There is no longer any assumption—as there had been in the post-Cold War phase, framed by so-called New World Order and Washington Consensus thinking—that norms and institutions exist towards which the world's major powers might converge.
